10 minutes discussion

Different programmes in the US and the UK are uniting young and old people. Can you think of different ways of uniting young and old people? Think about grandparents – what can you teach them? In what way can you help or teach an elderly person? And what can you learn from an old person? Think of different activities that young and old people can do together. What benefits can you think of for both children/young people and elderly people in terms of health, technology, gardening, cooking etc.

The Big Debate

An unreasonable amount of electronic waste is produced because of overconsumption in the rich world. This waste often ends up in the poor countries. With this in mind, is it really ethical to upgrade to the latest model every time a new phone is released? What about yourself, do you think about the ethical aspects when you buy electronic devices?
