av Carrie Morrison

Hi, and welcome to Newsreel Easy. I'm Carrie Morrison. Coming up:

- Could people in the UK be blocked from using Wikipedia?

Immie: I think, of course, it's so important to keep kids safe on the internet, but I don't think Wikipedia is the worst site out there.

But first...

Scottish skatepark might be protected

A popular skatepark in Scotland might soon become a protected place, because of its important history.

The Livingstone – or Livi skatepark as it's known – was built in 1981. Now, leaders in Scotland are saying it should be protected.

The skatepark is well known internationally and has been visited by skaters from across the world - including the former World Champion Tony Hawk.

When he skated there in 1990, thousands of people came to watch.

Wikipedia might be blocked

Now, do you use Wikipedia for your schoolwork?

People in the UK may soon be blocked from using it.

The government is thinking about creating new rules to make the internet safer. They want internet companies to check how old people are before they can go on their websites.

This is to make sure you only see things that are okay for your age.

But, Wikipedia are saying they won't do this. They have a rule that they only collect a little bit of information from people who use their site. They don't want to know too much about you.

And if they refuse to obey the new rules, the site could be blocked in the UK. So, what do young people in the UK think about this?

Rob: Hello, my name is Robbie.

Immie: Hi, my name is Immie.

Carrie: What are your first thoughts about Wikipedia potentially being banned in the UK?

Immie says that she'd be really sad if the UK lost Wikipedia, as she likes learning from it.

Rob: I think some kids may miss out on certain topics, for example, in history.

Immie says it is important for children to be safe online, but they should also be able to learn from Wikipedia.

Carrie: Did you use it at school?

Immie: I did use Wikipedia at school. Of course, it has to come with some level of warning that you can't just believe everything that you see on the Internet and take everything at face value.

Rob: I did use Wikipedia in school because I potentially found it easier.

Immie suggests that children should first learn not to believe everything they see on the internet.

Rob says that people like Wikipedia because it's easy to find a lot of information on one page.

Thank you, Immie and Rob.

Bridgerton's* new series is getting popular

Music: Bridgerton theme

And finally, Bridgerton's new series, Queen Charlotte, has become the number one show on Netflix.

One of its stars, Arséna Thomas, said she drew on her experiences of “misogynoir”, which is when black women face a particular kind of discrimination.

That's all for this week.

I'll speak to you again, after the summer break.

Goodbye!
